(By Associated Press)

Tokio.—Premier Hara was fatally stabbed in the breast Friday at the railroad station in Tokio.

News at Washington.
Washington.—Official advices from Tokio, announcing that Premier Hara of Japan had been stabbed fatally, were received at the state department Friday, soon after press dispatches brought the news of the assassination to the United States.
 Japanese embassy officials and members of the Japanese delegation to the armaments and Far Eastern conference are

May Succeed
Hara as Premier

received at the state department announcing the death of the premier. Secretary Hughes was attending the Friday cabinet meeting when the news arrived.

Before the departure of the Japanese delegation from Tokio, threatening letters had been received from various members of the cabinet and Prince Tokugawa himself, just before embarking on the steamer for the United States, received a fantastically worded document, threatening him with assassination unless he achieved results at Washington in benefit to his country and warning him also that he must not be to Prince Iyesato Tokugawa.

He is the head of the Japanese house of lords and of the Japanese delegation to the United States attending the disarmament conference.

Heffling Is Taken Again by State Man

Police authorities here were jubilant Friday over the securing of evidence by a state prohibition officer which is believed by the forest of

"foreign" in his attitude while the United States.

Mr. Hara was rapidly attaining a predominant position in the political life of Japan, so much so that I was often referred to as the Lloyd George of the empire. He achieved, among other things, a lot of working cooperation between the military and civic elements of the government, and had induced the military leaders, who had been a cause of endeavoring to direct too much the policies of the country, to work more in harmony with the civil departments.

The Assassination Moment.

The assassination of Premier Hara comes at a dramatic moment when the Japanese delegation is assembled for the Washington conference. It is a time when Japan is intensely interested in the international issues which Premier Hara has until now taken such an important part. He has been urged to head the delegation to Washington for a time, but on that matter under consideration, but finally decided that his services would be better employed at home during the discussions at Washington.

Friends of Hara frequently addressed the Japanese diet concerning the serious work ahead for Japan at Washington and, on Oct. 5, expressed the wish that Hara should be permitted to go and to carry his burden. He later conferred with John W. Heffling, on a charge of manufacturing liquor. This is the second time Heffling has been arrested in the past few weeks, a large still and some moonshine having been confiscated in a raid on his farm the first time.

The evidence is declared to be strong enough this time to warrant a conviction, but the law allows him the right to a trial by jury.

Teachers' Head

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

MILWAUKEE.—Adoption of a new constitution by the Wisconsin Teachers' association, held here, gave the complete victory for the elementary teachers and for those who have insisted on a greater degree of democracy in association affairs.

The new constitution vests the legislative powers of the association in a representative assembly, composed of delegates elected by affiliated local teachers' organizations. Each 50 local members or major fraction thereof. It is recognized that the association has grown so large that it cannot be conducted transacted by the entire body.

Dues of members are increased from $1. to $2 a year and employment of a full time salary secretary provided for. A president, three vice presidents, secretary and treasurer and executive committee of six members, in addition to the governing body, are provided. The members shall be men and women. Present Officers will serve for the terms for which they were elected.

DRY LAW LEAGUE ORGANIZES HERE

Enforcement of Prohibition Measures Backed by Citizens.

Formation of the Janesville branch of the Rock County Dry Law Enforcement league and selection of an executive committee of seven men and women was completed at a meeting of 25 men and women at a meeting of the Methodist church here Thursday afternoon. Those chosen as members of the executive committee are A. L. Matheson, J. C. Jensen, Rev. Henry Williams, L. A. Markham, Miss Ruth Jettis, Miss Mary Barker, and Mrs. Frank Peterson. The chairman and other officers of the branch will be chosen by the committee.

The plan of the organization as outlined by N. C. Shirley, superintendent of the Madison district of the Anti-Saloon League, is to have the Janesville committee look out for the interests of dry law enforcement in other towns and cities in the northern half of Rock county, and to assist those local committees in the same work. The chairman of each local committee as a member, will also be formed.

To Hold Public Sentiment

The purpose of the organization is to unite citizens, without regard to creed or party, to promote the enforcement of the national anti-saloon prohibition laws by the regular and efficient enforcement of the county of good moral character who subscribes to the constitution, may become a member.

"We want to crystallize public sentiment and to back the prohibition officers," said Mr. Shirley. "Officers whose duty it is to enforce the laws have been left alone to enforce them and that the public does not stand behind them. I do not believe we realize that it is a hard thing for officers to do their duty in enforcing the laws while standing alone, without a definite feeling the public is standing back of them. It is a great deal harder for the officers to enforce the law than for the support."

Source: Localists

"The liquor traffic is today the leader of the entire element of lawlessness," continued Mr. Shirley. "Things are so bad in regard to prohibition as some pessimists declare. As some one expressed it, 'other day, there is a lot more sunshine in the homes than during the days of the saloon, but few men are moonshiners.' The work of the dry law enforcement organization is merely what it states. More law enforcement organizations have gone on the road and are trying to go into too much than for any other reason."

"We ought to do our part as citizens and expect the officers to do theirs," said Mr. Shirley. "We are not in the habit of anything in Rock county in the dark. Down the east side and down the west side of the state Rock county is regarded as a model of law enforcement. American citizens, and the record which I hope Rock county makes in the enforcement of the dry laws will influence the entire state."

Jail for Moonshiners

"Moonshiners have come to regard the prohibition laws as a huge joke. Brought into court, they have been fined $1000, have paid it and have come back, charging it to overhead expense and profited greatly. The second offense under the law brings a jail sentence, however, and the men are sent to jail. Many times, of course, they do not know the man has been convicted before and then he gets off with a fine."

"Of Anonymous has been multi-faceted since the enactment of the dry law. Hundreds of letters with complaints about moonshiners are received daily with names signed, and they are promptly put in the waste basket. Many people are afraid their names will be affixed to the complaint. They will not. It is the duty of the officers to sign the complaint," said Mr. Shirley.

Rev. J. A. Melrose was chairman of the meeting, and Rev. T. C. Thompson secretary. The nominating committee was composed of Rev. Mr. Thompson, L. A. Markham, Rev. J. A. Melrose, Rev. T. P. Lewis, Rev. P. J. Turner, and Rev. Thomas W. Gales, assistant superintendent of the Madison district of the Anti-Saloon League, also spoke.

Finish the high school at an early date and give the children proper educational facilities.

IN SUPPORT OF THE COURTS.

The Gazette does not feel that the pardon of Peter Christ is a matter of controversy between Judge A. H. Reid and the governor—the governor is arraigned against every court of the state and the integrity of the judiciary in his action. The unanimous sentiment of bar associations which have so far acted in the matter has been in support of the contention that the court has been assailed and that the governor has usurped the judicial function. Only a few days would have elapsed before the term of sentence of Peter Christ would have expired. He was not saved a citizenship by a pardon—he had not lost it by his incarceration in jail. The only interpretation that can be placed on the governor's act is that he was playing politics. How valuable that is to his future is questionable, for he seems to have alienated many friends of the bench and bar by this act and added nothing to his following.
The whole matter ought to come up in order ly fashion when the investigation is made of the action of sheriff of Oneida county—the sheriff
having obeyed the judge and not the governor.
The question of whether the judge of the court can continue to enforce the court's orders or whether the courts will hereafter be mere creatures
of political expediency, must be established
once and for all in Wisconsin.

As an example of taking one's own medicine,
the recall in North Dakota shines brightly.

THE DEFEAT OF THE SALES TAX.

Through the efforts of Senator Irvine L. Len-root, the sales tax clause in the taxation bill has been defeated in the senate. Chairman Fordney had already stated, with authority no doubt, that a sales tax could not be passed through the house.
While there are arguments for the tax and it has many advocates, it is a tax that may be classed as one of the nuisances and the consumer would pay it in the long run, no matter how hedged about the collection of it might be. It is believed, with the economies of administration the government is now making, that revenue sufficient to carry on will be raised outside such emergency taxes as the sales.

The movement against French dressing has nothing to do with cooking!

BULLDOZING THE UNITED STATES.

The wide reach of the anarchist is shown in the attempts to kill the American Ambassador at Paris and the bombing of American consulates elsewhere. Two men in Dedham, Mass., were tried in the regular manner after being charged with murder. They were found guilty by the jury and sentenced. But that did not suit the world's anarchists. They issued circulars warning the government of the United States and the Massachusetts authorities that if the men were not given a new trial there would be demonstrations of anarchists against every American representative in all the countries of the world. It was an attempt on a great scale to bulldoze the United States and defeat justice. These men Sacco and Vanzetti, were not convicted because they were anarchists, but because the evidence was conclusive to the jury that they were guilty.

Anarchy is well organized internationally. It is not the result of any political conditions but a cult of destruction. It has no code of morals and thrives on crime. Once, it was supposed to be a result of protest against autocratic government, but it was not so. The anarchist is equally a hater of a republic in which he may participate as a citizen as he is of an autocracy in which he played no governmental part. He may have come to this stage by a series of evolutionary steps from being fed on cheap demagoguery, then into a Fabian or theoretical socialism and finally accept Karl Marx and the rule of the proletariat. It is only a short distance then to the anarchist creed of no government and no God.
The anarchist does not want justice—justice would place him behind bars as dangerous to society. His answer to argument is the bomb.
That is why our consuls and ministers in Europe are in danger now with the threat of death because of justice here in America. There should be no quibbling with anarchy and no compromise
with the forces which lead to it.

From the rough stuff being pulled off in the milk strike in New York it may be thought that the drivers lived on something beside a milk diet.

RICE DOPE

By FREDERIC J. HASKIN

Washington, D. C.—The greatest food in the world, according to the Department of Agriculture, is being neglected by the American people.
You will probably be surprised to learn that this food is rice. It deserves the title of greatness in that it is the staple food of about one-half of the human race, and that more people depend almost exclusively on rice for their food than depend on any other thing.

Its wide use is justified by the fact that it contains as much nourishment as any of the other cereals, and is one of the most easily digestible of all foods. In the southern part of this country, rice is appreciated as its true value, appears on almost every dinner table, and is prepared in a dozen of appetizing ways. But in the rest of the country it is used only sparingly, and too often it is prepared in ways that are not calculated to make it attractive.

Rice, therefore, deserves to be boosted, and especially unpolished or brown rice, which has made its appearance in a few grocery stores only recently, but would be obtainable everywhere if there were a demand for it.

Rice shares the fate common to all grains in civilized countries of being milled in such a way that some of the most important food elements are cut away from it and fed to the cattle. The things in which our diet is apt to be deficient are minerals, roughage and the recently discovered elements known as vitamins. These are the very things which the milling process takes away, not only from rice, but from wheat, corn and barley. Experts contend that many of our characteristic civilized diseases are due to the shortage of these elements. They are removed by the mills primarily because they impair the keeping quality of the product and make them difficult to handle in trade. Furthermore, the people have become accustomed to these highly milled cereals, so that there is little demand for the whole-grain products. Much has been written about how the manufacturers and retailers are starving us by selling us these highly milled foods. As a matter of fact, they are merely giving us what we demand. If the people could be made to understand that a demand could be created, they would be supplied by the trade. This is already taking place to some extent in the case of rice, which is an instructive example in many ways.

The whole grain contains protein, fat, starch,
sugar, mineral matter, fiber and one of the most important of the vitamins. By removing the bran coat and the germ in milling, part of the protein, fat and mineral matter, and practically all of the vitamins are lost. What remains is mostly starch. Experiments in the tropics have shown that persons fed almost wholly on polished rice contract the "beriberi" disease known as "hot-foot."
The polished rice as a food, as a matter of fact,
is a very poor one. It is an excellent food to furnish the starchy element in a mixed diet. It is no more dangerous than wheat flour, as long as other foods are eaten with it. The point is simply that removed, leaving germ with its vitamins content, the mineral substances and the fat, is a vastly more valuable food than polished rice.
The polished rice as a food, as a matter of fact,
is a very poor one. It is an excellent food to furnish the starchy element in a mixed diet. It is no more dangerous than wheat flour, as long as other foods are eaten with it. The point is simply that
removed, leaving germ with its vitamins content, the mineral substances and the fat, is a
vastly more valuable food than polished rice.

The trade seems to be ready to supply any demand there may be. There are three grocery stores at least in Washington, where brown rice may be bought from fall until spring. It is not kept in the summer, because, as one expert put it, it becomes "stale." It can be bought in this city, however, at least eight months in the year.
Doubtless it can be bought at large grocery stores in other cities. In smaller places it is not obtainable simply because there is little or no demand for it.

It is a surprise to find that the retail stores
here also have for sale the wild rice of North America. This is a grain, somewhat distantly related to the true rice, which grows in many of our swamps and marshes. It is the favorite food of wild fowl. It was a staple of the American Indians, who used to paddle through the marshes
in their canoes and shatter the grain into the boat with their paddles. Some of the pioneers used it, too. It is a tasty and nutritious grain. Many persons living in this country could gather an abundant supply of this valuable grain without cost if they knew it when they saw it. It is said that the cultivation of the wild rice is almost impossible because of the ease with which it shatters.
The growing of rice has had an interesting history in this country. Although rice has been grown in the tropics since before written history began, it did not reach this country until about 1700. A bag of rice was then brought to Charlestown, S. C., on a ship, and the cultivation of it began in a small way. It soon became the staple crop of that region and was grown on the tidal marshes by the use of much hand labor, for machinery could not be used in the deep mud.
Rice-growing was very profitable, but only because of the presence of slave labor. The industry had the honor of supporting the most aristocratic society which America has ever known—that of the South Carolina before the war.
The owners of the great rice plantations of that state were cream of the old southern society, and some of the legends and stories about plantation days are based upon them.

This regime collapsed completely when the Civil War took its slaves away from it. The rice fields reverted to jungle and for a time rice culture was at very low ebb in this country. Then it began again further west, where it was grown by different methods, permitting of the use of machinery. This western rice raising is an industry of recent growth. California marketed its first rice crop in 1912. The leading rice producing states now in order of their importance are Louisiana, Texas, Arkansas and California. Some rice is raised in Mississippi, Florida, Alabama and Missouri.

The rice produced in these states is more than enough to supply all the needs of this country, and more rice could be raised. The general use of rice, especially in its unpolished form, would give the nation one more great food crop of the highest value.

Interested in such affairs. It is to be regretted that all manufacturers of the city are not showing a real demonstration of what Janesville makes would be enough to fill the building without a retail store or business. The exposition should by all means be an annual affair, with full participation of all lines of industry and business activity.

ference at Washington goes right along in his absence. In this case it is not one of letting George do it.

WHAT THE REPORTER FOUND.

He hadn't handed up a sum of bright and yellow. He hadn't made a fortune out of products bought and sold. He wasn't rich in dollars, but the day they buried him. The eyes of all the multitude with tears of grief were dim.

We sent a smart reporter out to chronicle his days. To write about the things he'd done and show to him with praise. But when the scribe came back again he shook his head in doubt. And said he couldn't find a thing that he could write about.

He hadn't held an office and he wasn't known to fame. There wasn't any title he could add unto his name.

He hadn't built a college or a hospital or such
And all he knew about him was that people loved him much.

"Go out and ask the newboys why they mourn for him today," ask the throngs along the street. The editor commanded. Why their heads are bowed in sorrow, yet the people how to tell. What there was of worth about him that they loved this man so well.

And the people gladly told him that the reason that they wept. Was because the man had given of the riches of his heart. And that brief obituary had a golden line like this:

"His life was spent in friendship and he's one
the town will miss."

DOWNHEARTED, I SHOULD SAY NOT.
Oh, boys, I've got some pleasant news, my sweet-

I never agreed to marry her while landlady were

But since I loved her four long years I thought the only way.

Was to ask her if I might love, honor and bring

The ironic twist had laid me flat, as it did many

But her refusal set me on my feet again.

Who's Who Today

MRS. GLENDOWER EVANS.

A white-haired, seemingly frail little woman has attended every hearing of the case of Sacco and Vanzetti, the Italian communists who were convicted at Dedham, Mass., June 14 last of having murdered a factory master and his guard and robbed them of $15,000. She is Mrs. Glendower Evans, a wealthy, radical and friend of every labor movement.
Mrs. Evans herself contributed $10,000 toward the defense fund.

Long identified with the cause of labor, she has made speeches all over New England, in favor of "red" and movements. Before becoming active in the attempt to secure freedom for the two condemned communists, Mrs.
Evans worked in behalf of the "Reds" at Deer Island, where they were deported by the government as undesirable.

Born in New Rochelle, N. Y., Mrs. Evans was educated in private schools and took special courses at Radcliffe college. In 1882 she married Glendower Evans, who died in 1888.

Mrs. Evans threw herself into woman suffrage and industrial movements, and in 1911 was elected a member of the Massachusetts minimum wage commission which led to a permanent wage commission, the first of its kind in the country.

It was in 1915 that Mrs. Evans became nationally known as a radical. She waged a verbal warfare against the Lawrence police in the famous Lawrence textile strike. Although she was a stockholder in a Lawrence mill, Mrs.
Evans took the side of the strikers and even picked the mills with them and aided in gaining funds for the strike.

OPINIONS OF OTHERS

Voices of the Young Men

The generation that is at the door demands its word in the matter of the limitation of fleets
and armaments and the problem of world disarmament.
The kids who met in Princeton on Wednesday are the cannon "fodder" of tomorrow's war.

These young men have every right to be heard. It is the young man who suffers, fights and does the dying; the young man whose carer is in the hands of the world's politicians and comes back to the slow years of Reconstruction after destruction has passed. When the conference has finished its work, that work will be for good or evil, affect the young men who are in the schools and colleges at desks, the barbers and back of the counters today.

The spokesmen from forty colleges who met at Princeton look at this matter sadly. They are expecting no "million-dollar" but they do ask that the present naval building program be suspended for all time and that existing fleets be reduced. They see, what others have discovered, that the Far Eastern problems must be eliminated before disarmament can get forward.

The voice of America's young men spoke at Princeton. This and other nations of the six-power-parley will do well to heed to the wishes and opinions of the next generation. Their word and their day will come after ours, and it is for their future freedom and security that the conference meets. They will fight for peace and pay for it.—Philadelphia Public Ledger.

Gasoline vapor in itself is compar-

MANY APPEALS FOR RELIEF FROM "S. A."

Milwaukee—One dollar will support a neglected child for one day in a Salvation Army children's home; $3.00 will supply a baby with milk for ten days; $25 will supply a mother's children with lunch while she is at work for a month; these are among the figures given out by the Salvation Army in their drive for funds which is being carried on here this week.

Some of the appeals for help that come to the Army are of the most touching kind, according to Postmaster Frank B. Schutt. Recently the settlement house was appealed to for aid from family of eight, including the parents.

The father had begun to buy a little home, and after having paid $400 on the total of $2,500 lost his job, fell six weeks behind in the payments, and the children had to go hungry. He hated to ask for aid, but he could not let the children starve, so he asked the Salvation Army for groceries. The Army will see to it that the plan family has plenty of food and will try to find work for the man.

DOES ART PAY? PRINCESS TRIES TO FIND ANSWER

Princess Alexandra Victoria von Schleswig-Holstein.

Does art pay? A Hohenzollern princess who yields the artist's brush with a skill far above the plane of the dilettant is trying to solve the age-old question. To recoup the fortune swept away by the war, which her father-in-law, the "Woodcutter of Doorn," unleased eight years ago, Princess Alexandra Victoria von Schleswig-Holstein, divorced wife of Prince August Wilhelm, fourth son of the Kaiser, is trying to find a market for her creations in America.

its sessions, this archway will be the central figure of a great illumination of the national capital on the night of November 11. The two obelisks are eighty-five feet high and are finished in travertine. The jeweled curtain or necklace suspended between them stretches over eighty-six feet six inches of space. It contains of 27,500 Novagen jewels in all colors.

ACTUAL DISARMING NOT THOUGHT OF BY GREAT NATIONS

building and limiting new appropriations only to the replacement of obsolescence so that a vessel built in 1921 could be replaced by another replaced in 1931 and so on.

The American Navy is anxious to take the leadership in proposing a program not only of limitation but reduction. But the problem is not as easy as a definition of terms might suggest. What is meant by "new appropriations?" And does it refer to inventions? Is the limitation in terms of money, some nation might invent a new agency of warfare which would be inexpensive but which would absolutely alter the relative strength of existing navies.

Furthermore, what about the merchant marine? The merchant ships of today are potentially valuable as commerce destroyers. Guns can be mounted on their decks in a few weeks and they can be converted into warships. England has the biggest merchant marine. America has a vast number of ships, too. Certainly no nation wants to limit the building of ships used for commercial purposes. Yet some agreement must be made as to the conversion of those merchantmen in time of war.

So the public can rest assured of one thing: The United States doesn't intend to scrap its army and navy merely to respond to an emotional demand that America set the others good example. American means to force a curtailment of armament building. On the score the United States has an advantage. For if the rest of the world will not agree to quit spending money on useless armament, the United States will find herself compelled slowly to build the most powerful navy afloat that may sound like an empty boast, but it is a fact that our officials believe America will have no alternative and that if the other nations fail to limit their programs the United States will be in a position to continue her naval construction.

America is not actuated alone, however, by the desire to reduce her armaments by a general reduction in naval power. The United States would like to see the other countries cut down so that the enormous surplus of armaments and navies could be better devoted to the upbuilding of the economic strength of each country. Furthermore, if less money were spent on armament, less money would have to be raised by the Europeans to meet their tax bills and the price of their paper currency in terms of gold would correspondingly rise.

This would steady European national exchange and make it possible for America to sell her agricultural and manufactured products in foreign markets against the payment of a revival of business and an end of unemployment. Also, it would mean that the European countries which owe American billions of dollars would be able to begin payments on their war debt and interest. The receipt of a half billion dollars of interest alone from Europe would mean an immediate easing of the burden on American taxpayers. Behind the urge for limitation of armament are practical and material reasons as well as idealistic conceptions.

But how can the limit be limited? This correspondent has canvassed the highest army and navy officials. They talk in terms of relative strength, but they are not sure how many ships, so shall the others. If America gives up so many fortifications so shall the others. And so on. The navy men admit that in the event of a business war between the large powers will remain the same. They see no other way out of it. They concede the necessity for a reduction of the financial burden but they resolutely insist on holding the United States as the second naval power if not the first. Undoubtedly British policy will be the same.

World Check Japan. Japan would be prevented from catching up with America or passing the United States and menacing the British seapower, if such a stupendous job could really be done by the Japanese people, which is to be doubted. The Japanese, however, would be checked—America and England would stand still and money would be saved. That's about it.

WOMEN ARE FILLING PHARMACY POSITIONS

New York—Women have broken down the barrier to pharmacy and are filling positions formerly open only to men.

Dean G. C. Dickman of the College of Pharmacy at Columbia University, in making this statement, said the college records showed that women excelled in scholarship and had earned more than their share of class honors.

"In practical work, where neatness, dispatch and above all, accuracy are deciding factors, their record is an enviable one," he said. "The old prejudice against the employment of women in pharmacies, excepting perhaps in a minor capacity, is rapidly disappearing in the large cities. In suburban and rural communities women have always been accorded their just recognition."

SLOCUM KEEPS IT IN THE HOUSE

Wouldn't Think of Being With-out Tanlac, Says Detroit Citizen—Health Restored.

"Each day after I started taking Tanlac I felt stronger and better and now I just feel great," said John F. Slocum, 145 Pasadena Ave., Detroit, Mich.

"Some two years back I had a cold and it looked like I couldn't get rid of it at all. It left me in a terrible run-down condition. My stomach was out of order and I felt sick all over. My liver was sluggish. I was very bilious, and as I could hardly eat anything, my strength seemed to be gradually leaving me. I got to where I couldn't sleep at night, and felt so bad it was hard for me to do my work properly. In fact, at times I lost as much as three days' time from work just because I couldn't hold out on the job.

"However, as soon as I started on Tanlac I began to eat better and sleep better, and four bottles of the medicine had cured my system so thoroughly I actually felt better than ever before. I got just what I wanted and sleep soundly every night. Tanlac is the greatest medicine ever known or heard of, and I wouldn't think of being without a bottle in the house."

Tanlac is sold in Janesville by McCue & Buss, Drug Co. and leading druggists everywhere.

CENTENNIAL TO BE CELEBRATED HERE

Episcopalians in Nation-Wide Observance of Society's Birthday, Sunday.

Every Episcopal parish in the country, including Trinity of Janesville, will join the country Sunday in a nationwide celebration of the 100th anniversary of the Domestic and Foreign Missionary society. The program calls for a celebration of the society's birthday in every church and a great service of thanksgiving when a centennial offering will be made to complete certain building projects in the domestic and foreign field to commemorate in a permanent way the passing of the first century of missionary work.

The observance of the centennial in Janesville will consist of corporate communion at 7:30 and 10:30 a. m. Sunday in which all members of the church are expected to take part; a special offering and a gospel at 7:30 p. m. presented by the church school pupils under direction of Mrs. C. W. Richards. The pageant is entitled "The Mission of the Church."

"Fast Growth of Church"

Speaking of the great success of the missionary work of the Episcopal church in the past 100 years, Rev. Henry Willmann said:

"A century of aggressive work has extended the Episcopal church from a few scattered congregations along the Atlantic seaboard until today it reaches every point where the flag flies and far beyond. In 100 years its membership has grown from about 25,000 communicants to more than 1,000,000. It maintains today more hospitals, more homes for the aged and more homes for children than any other Christian body in the world. Its Roman Catholic and Protestant societies hold title to valuable properties in all parts of the world, and handles trust funds in the millions of dollars, of which it has invested a single dollar through bad investment. The society's annual receipts have risen from $7,000 in 1821 to $2,700,000 in 1920.

First Church in State

"The first Episcopal church in Wisconsin was that erected by the Episcopalians for their worship. Later, a larger and more elaborate stone building took the place of the original structure, and a school and hospital were added. About a year and a half ago this second church was struck by lightning and destroyed. A third building is to be erected on the same site to accommodate the 600 Indian communicants who make up the congregation.

"In the parishes of Wisconsin the services Sunday will be particularly devoted to a grateful commemoration of the 100th anniversary of the birth of the Rev. William Williams, Rev. Solomon Burleson, and other hardy pioneers who carried the church forward step by step with the advancing frontier of civilization."

MEXICAN LEADER AGAINST SPAIN IS DENIED HONOR ROLE

Mexico City—Augustin Turbide, who 10 years ago led Mexican insurgents in the fight against Spanish rule which resulted in Mexican independence, is not considered a national hero by the Chamber of Deputies which recently voted to erase his name from the roll of honor hanging in the main hall of the lower house.

The campaign against Turbide was led by the radicals who proclaimed him an imperialist, instead of a representative of democracy. The newspapers unanimously decided the lower house action.

LABOR BACKS SALE OF U. S. SECURITIES

The American Federation of Labor demands that the Treasury Department continue the sale of treasury securities to the public. The recreation promises its support to bring to the attention of every member of its organization the fact that they can be obtained at the postoffice in denominations of 25 cents, $1, $5, $25, $100, and $1,000.

The ground upon which this demand is made is that "at least five hundred million dollars were literally swindled from the public last year by the sale of fraudulent stocks and securities, and that these government securities provide the means whereby the small investor and saver will have a safe and convenient investment."

Ryan to Stay
at Marquette
Rest of Season

(By Associated Press.)
Milwaukee.—Jack Ryan, coach of the Marquette university football team, has been put on the list of the week of the hardest kind of training in preparation for their game with the Haskell Indians here Saturday. The Marquette squad practiced behind closed doors most of the week, a greater part of their drill being used in trying the Braves' plays.

"The Haskell Indians have a bag full of gridiron tricks of which the double pass is their forte," said Ryan. "We will be prepared for such an attack."

Coach Ryan who recently issued a statement that this would be his last season with Marquette because he said the faculty and student body have not backed the team as they should, announced there was little if any possibility of a reconciliation between the Marquette athletic authorities and himself. He has announced his intention of abandoning his position as coach at the expiration of his contract at the end of the season. Ryan will coach some other football team in 1922, he announced.

"I have been at Marquette for five years, and during that time I have received coaching offers from numerous schools," said the Purple and Gold pilot. "But I have always declined to accept any away from Milwaukee propositions because I have my family and business located here."

Every member of the football squad it is said commended Ryan for his situation at the school. "The boys do not blame me for making any decision at this time about resigning after Dec. 1," said Coach Ryan. "They thought the time was ripe for me to tell the football public and Marquette followers the handling under which I have been laboring this season."

The team is a little crippled for Saturday's game as Ahmann, a promising fullback, and McGill and Walsh have not fully recovered from injuries received last Saturday.

(Special to the Gazette.)
Beloit.—Beloit college will be the only Wisconsin college to put its football team into action Saturday. Beloit will meet Lake Forest at Lake Forest. While the date of the game seems to favor Beloit, Coach Tommy Mills will take no risks of letting his team think that they can win easily, and is giving the outfit the hardest kind of work this week. Beloit will not game next week and Mills will let his men rest for a few days after the Lake Forest game and then drill them hard for the Ripon match Nov. 19.

SALES TAX KILLED
BY SENATE AFTER
LENROOT SPEECH

Mr. Lenroot then made an equally long speech in opposition, which was frequently interrupted by rather sharp colloquies between himself and the senator from Utah. His speech was credited by one of the senate leaders as being responsible for turning at least eight votes.

Held as Last Resort

A sales tax is "undoubtedly only when every other means of taxation has been exhausted," Mr. Lenroot said, because it violates the principle of taxation according to ability to pay. "The time may come when, having reasonably exhausted these other sources and additional revenue is needed, that a sales tax might be justified," said Mr. Lenroot.

Mr. Lenroot predicted that the soldier bonus bill will be passed before next July 1.

He declared that the Smoot proposal would fall ineffectually upon the consumer, the man with a low income, who is barely able to support his family with the necessities of life, as against the man with a $50,000 or a $100,000 income.

A year, he pointed out, would pay twice as much percentage on his net income as would the man with an income of $50,000.

"Men must eat; men must live," he said, "and under the amendment of the senator from Utah, every man who eats and every man who buys clothing or coal in addition to all the taxes imposed by this bill would be compelled to pay the so-called sales tax."

Questions Flung

Mr. Lenroot denied the correctness of a statement made by Senator Smoot to the effect that 75 per cent of the people of the country were in favor of the sales tax. He said he knew of no farmers' organizations or labor organizations supporting it and that, with these two groups of citizens eliminated, there was not 75 per cent of the people left to favor it.

The major part of the propaganda for a sales tax, Mr. Lenroot said, has come from the representations that if a sales tax were adopted the surplus on incomes would be reduced; that the complicated corporation tax surpluses would be abolished; and that the tax on corporations would be reduced while, as a matter of fact, there is no simplification under the amendment for the individual tax payer.

It does not affect him in the slightest degree," he said. "If this tax be adopted, his complicated returns will be continued."

Vote on Measure

The democrats voted solidly against the sales tax and were joined by 17 republicans.

The roll call showed:

For the amendment, twenty-five republicans—Barsum, Cameron, Edue, Egan, Fernald, France, Frohman, Gault, Gooding, Jones, of Washington, Keyes, McKinley, Moses, New, Newberry, Nicholson, Odell, Phillips, Poinsett, Sherridge, Smoot, Spencer, Vandever, Warren, Watson of Indiana and Weller.

Against the amendment, 17 republicans—Harrish, Capper, Curtis, Kenyon, La Follette, Lenroot, McCowan, McCumber, McNary, Nelson, Norbeck, Penrose, Stanford, Sterling, Sutherland, Townsend and Willis, and twenty-six democrats, Ashurst, Bronson, Capper, Fletcher, Gerry, Glass, Harris, Hoffman, Jones of New Mexico, Hendrick, King, McKellar, Myers, Overman.

Says His Prescription Has Powerful
Influence Over Rheumatism

Discoverer Tells People's Drug Co., and All Good Druggists Not to Take a Cent of Anyone's Money Unless Allenru Completely Banishes All Rheumatic Pains and Twinges.

Mr. James H. Allen suffered for years with rheumatism. Many times this terrible disease left him helpless and unable to work.

He finally decided, after years of ceaseless study, that no one can be free from rheumatism until the accumulated impurities, commonly called uric acid deposits, were dissolved in the joints and muscles and expelled from the body.

With this idea in mind he consulted physicians, made experiments and finally compounded a prescription that quickly and completely banished every sign and symptom of rheumatism from his system.

He freely gave his discovery to others, who took it with what might be called marvelous success. After years of urging he decided to let sufferers everywhere know about his discovery through newspapers. People's Drug Co. has been appointed agent for Allenru in this vicinity with the understanding that he will freely return the purchase money on the first bottle to all who state they received no benefit.

Chi and Ohio, Undefeated, Lead Big 10 Battles Saturday

IOWA WILL PLAY GOPHER OUTFIT; WISCONSIN IDLE

Chicago.—Ohio State and the University of Chicago football teams practiced hard Friday on the eve of their first Big Ten game to decide the Big Ten championship.

Coach Wiley's squad of 25 men arrived Friday including nine of his last year's regulars to buck the Maroon lines Saturday and determine whether the Maroons or Buckeyes will Saturday night remain undefeated.

The position of right half back is one which is worrying Coach Wiley most for Honacker, his star in that position, suffered a dislocated jaw bone in practice scrimmage. Coincidentally Johnny Bryan, halfback on the Maroon team was operated on Thursday for an infected leg and will be out of the game.

Iowa Plays Gophers.

The Buckeyes may have the support of Piley, their giant star Saturday, although a dislocated jaw made his appearance uncertain. He is a 200 pound guard, who has made the all-American team.

Coach Jones of Iowa put off the departure of his team for Minnesota until the last minute so he might polish up the players in scrimmage and re-arrange the team.

Coach Richards of Wisconsin is working out a new forward pass game and playing his team against Michigan Nov. 12. An easy victory is predicted for the Badgers. All passes to the field, Madison, have been closed and work is in secret, may be for the rest of the year.

7 Wolverines Back.

Coach Yost of Michigan, has had seven of his players released from the hospital last week and may be able to make a good showing against Wisconsin.

Northwestern University's squad left Friday afternoon for Lafayette to meet Purdue in a game which will decide the last place position in the Big Ten race.

After three conference defeats, Illinois plays De Pau Saturday.

IOWA 3-1 FAVORITE

IN GOPHER FIGHT

Minneapolis.—Iowa is considered a 3 to 1 favorite in its clash with the University of Minnesota football team on Northern Boulevard Saturday. Several changes have been made in the Gopher line-up, raising student hopes that Minnesota's annual homecoming day may be made a complete success. A Gopher victory. Three regular Minnesota stars, Oss, Johnson and McGregory will be prevented from playing because of injuries sustained in previous games. The game will be a hard one, Gophers Friday went through the most spirited scrimmage of the season.

Saturday's attendance is expected to be the largest of the season.

New Pass Game Being Tried by Badger Squad

(Special to this Gazette)

Madison.—Richards is working the Badgers hard to make Michigan plays and Chicago plays. The team should be in excellent shape for the game with Michigan, but they will not be keyed up as for the Chicago game. It is too much to expect to have the team going at top speed in two successive weeks.

Rollie Williams seems to be the choice for quarter back and Gopher's return to the field will fill his place. The way that the Edgerton speed king ran the team against the Gophers was a revelation. It will give more defensive power to the backfield but Gopher will probably get a chance at quarter and Rollie will then be shifted back to his old position.

The team is working on a different style of play than it has used in games so far. It is hard to say what this style will be, but the forward pass may play an important part in case Ohio State is successful with it Saturday at Chicago.

Richards will take most of the team to see the Ohio State-Chicago game to acquaint them with the powerful attack that State used to good advantage, especially against Princeton. If Wisconsin can win its next two games it will give the East something to talk about.

MADISON HIGH SQUAD ALL OVER INJURIES

(Special to the Gazette)

Madison.—The Capital city's high school team was not so badly battered last Saturday by Chippewa Falls as at first reported. Bud Walsh, at first thought to have broken his collar bone, is well enough to be able to play in the game with Kenosha next Saturday. The only man who will probably be out is Mathison, guard, who has a wrenched ankle.

Mount Vernon, N. Y.—Babe Ruth, billed as "The King of Swat," which is no new revelation for him, made his long heralded stage debut Thursday night in Proctor's theater.

BRINGING UP FATHER

Williams Says Rollie Is Star of Conference

Wisconsin is looked upon as the strongest team in the conference by Dr. Harry L. Williams, coach of Minnesota. "Doc" ought to know for he became acquainted with the Badger quality through a 35 to 0 defeat last Saturday at Madison.

Here is what Williams has to say in a St. Paul paper and when he says it, he gives Rollie Williams a great boost as All-Western material.

"Dr. Williams remarked after the battle that the Badgers were the class of the western conference and graded the Wisconsin backfield, which gave him his worst kicking in twenty years, as the best he could recall in his long career in big time football. The Minnesota coach was not alone in the opinion, either, for all the experts who saw the game, were of practically the same mind and confidently predicted that the Badgers, playing with the skill and determination which characterized their work Saturday, would be the favorites when they clash with State's Maroons, now regarded as their principal rivals for the Big Ten title.

"Rollie Williams of Wisconsin, playing what Coach Richards declared to be the best game of his career, clinched for himself a place on what-over All-Western teams are picked by authorities fortunate enough to see the Cardinal come in action Saturday. He stood out as the brightest star of the day though he had to do some big league twinking to outshine Elliott and Sundt, who were the other Badger technicians. The three of them, with occasional assistance from Gould, did about everything a backfield can do to make life miserable for the opposition.

"Williams excelled in open field running, his return of Martineau's wonderful punts being uniformly brilliant. Sundt and Elliott made a specialty of smashing the line, a teaming ram being about as menacing as a coach's powder puff when compared to either of the Badger Big Berthas. The backs were materially aided by hard driving interference which Doc Williams called 'superior' by a pair of tackles capable of tearing holes which permitted the trio of speed demons to get under way."

Flies 176 Miles an Hour; Wins Pulitzer Derby

Omaha.—Smashing all speed records over a closed course, Albert Acosta, flying a Curtiss navy racer at an average speed of 176 miles an hour, won the second annual race for the Pulitzer trophy here this afternoon. No human had ever traveled so fast for 150 miles. Official time, 52 minutes 3.2 seconds.

ATHLETIC INTEREST GROWS AT LAKE FOREST

Lake Forest, Ill.—Lake Forest alumni have started to take interest in athletics at the north shore institution, with the result it will not be many years before the college is represented by eleven of the type developed when Burt Kennedy was in charge. Ralph Gier, former Dartmouth star, is in charge at Lake Forest.

COLGATE HAS TAKEN REAL TROUNCINGS BUT TEAM ALWAYS COMES UP FOR MORE

Colgate is one of the eastern teams that has met with heartbreaking reverses this year. The team's hopes of a big year were blasted early when Princeton trounced them 19 to 0. Cornell added to their woe by winning 31 to 7. The team has showed a wonderful fighting spirit in spite of these reverses.

Cross Country Runs Popular This Season

New York.—Cross country running is proving unusually popular this fall, according to reports from eastern colleges and universities. In their long hill and dales, the runners are receiving unprecedented support and there is promise of some excellent contests before the snow flies.

Cornell's varsity is intact and there are promising additions to the squad. The team from Ithaca which last year won the annual I. A. A. A. championship is again favored to win team honors. This year's race comes on Monday, November 29 and will not conflict with football. It will be run over the new six-mile local course at Van Cortlandt Park.

Cornell Has Money.

Besides the two Brown brothers, Cornell has on its squad P. C. Carter, Charles Irish, Dickinson and Strickler. Tom McDermott may be the holder of the intercollegiate two-mile championship, having covered the route in 9:23 and his brother Don is improving.

Penn State is the dark-horse among the probable entrants. Penn State has Allen Helfrich, the Buffalo halfback; John L. Romig, winner of first place in the 1920 intercollegiate run and Ira Shields, who was runner-up to Jole Ray in American Olympic team tryouts.

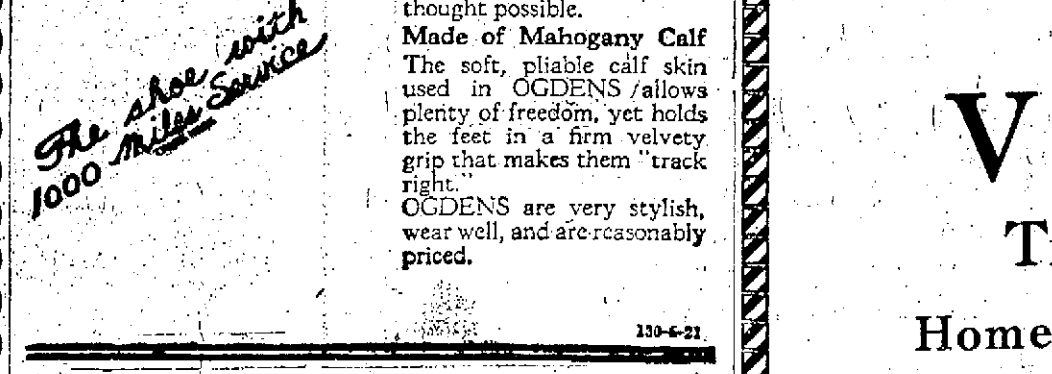

Columbia has Higgins, Bob Moore, Allen Haskell, Allen Tausig, R. K. Knox, Bert Harris, Vladimir Morosoff and James Bernson working.

Princeton Has Vets.

Princeton, which trailed Cornell by one point in 1920, has a number of veteran candidates this year. Bill Rogers, who finished third in the championship last year, Allen Swede, holder of the national intercollegiate two-mile record and Don Boneman, winner of the three-mile event in the recent Oxford-Cambridge Cornell-Princeton games are the stars.

Coach Billy Queal has a good squad to work with at Yale. Tom Campbell may come out this year. Mills, who does the two-mile in 9:46 and Douglas, the international two-mile sensation are leading Bulldog prospects.

Other institutions that have formidable cross-country teams in training this year are the College of the City of New York, Dartmouth, Harvard, Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Pennsylvania and Syracuse.

Record Horses

Has Slow Sire

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Lexington, Ky.—When Peter Manning and Arlon Guy established new world speed records during the fall trotting season held here recently thousands of spectators took the performance as a matter of course while breeding specialists and close followers of the sport went home to scan pedigrees and statistics to discover if possible the origin of the unusual speed displayed by the two animals.

A study of pedigrees made by Prof. W. S. Anderson, an authority on horse breeding, and a member of the animal husbandry department of the Kentucky College of Agriculture, shows that the two animals derived their ability for speed from Astor, a sire who was not exceptionally fast himself but one who is noted for the speed of his get and that of his sons. He has a record of 2:15 1/4.

Studies made by Prof. Anderson show that Peter Manning who set a new world record for the mile by reducing the time from 1:58 to 1:57 1/4 could not have obtained his speed from his mother, Glendora G., who had a track record of 2:25 1/4, nor from her sire, Emory Graton, who had a record of 2:28.

FRENCH FOOTBALL IS CLASSED "EDUCATION"

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Paris.—Football matches in France henceforth, will not come under the heading of entertainments but within the category of "physical and military education," French courts have ruled. Hitherto gate receipts of football matches have been uniformly subjected to the so-called poor-tax on entertainments. A test case, however, has just been made by the manager of the Toulouse Club who refused to turn in the usual ten percent to the state and the court has decided that football was immune from the tax.

Whitewater Has Best Normal 11

(Special to the Gazette.)

Whitewater.—The local normal school eleven, considered the equal of any in the state, meets Milwaukee Normal Friday. Coach Agnew, assisted by three assistants, has been working with the Milwaukee team in view since the start of the season. He will take 25 players to Milwaukee.

Coach Downer of Milwaukee has this to say about Whitewater: "Whitewater has their best team of many years. I consider them the equal of any normal in the state. La Crosse was lucky to beat them 6 to 3. They will give us every bit as tough a game as did La Crosse."

FATTY'S FREEDOM AND REPUTATION THE STAKES IN GREAT LEGAL BATTLE AT SAN FRANCISCO

WHO WAS THE SOLDIER TO BE BURIED IN ARLINGTON CEMETERY?

The Gazette is the former's greatest daily newspaper right now. It is impossible to find a daily paper anywhere giving so much important news to the interest of the farmer. There are farm departments which are mere clippings from material sent out by agricultural colleges and academic departments. But the Gazette does not believe this is what helps the farmer in his community or in his own problems. Hence the facts regarding things that happen right here at home are of more importance and the Gazette is the chronicler of these events and facts.

The weekly market review of the livestock market is a feature on Mondays which no farmer should miss. Remember also that on November 10 the Gazette will begin the publication of the new serial story—"The Guarded Heights"—for which the serial rights have been purchased for Gazette readers.

Are you a regular reader of the Gazette? This is your opportunity. No nation in all the world has erected such a monument to the men who have given lives for the nation as the United States at Arlington and the soldiers who are buried there.

This is only one of the many features of the Saturday Gazette. There will be another story of the live stock industry of Rock County with illustrations; and numerous illustrations of Southern Wisconsin people too. There will be another great story about the Disarmament conference and what it hopes to accomplish for the world. Are you reading the latest dispatches on the conference?

Lawrence has an uncanny way of telling what is going to happen. The Gazette will also begin to tell the story of the life of a man who was a soldier in the world war. The picture, "The Affairs of Anatol," will be shown for the remainder of the week.

"The Guarded Heights," Nov. 19.

At the Theatres

The act of Jimmy Rosen and Co. "Call Me Papa," features the new bill of vaudeville at the Myers theater to remain over the week-end. Mr. Rosen is called the most perfectly formed tall person in the world, being about four feet in height, but with all the proportions of a grown man. The act was a clever domestic comedy sketch.

Mr. Rosen will be remembered by some people who saw him here eight years ago when he appeared at the Myers in "Buster Brown," starring in the play. He attracts a good deal of attention on the street, but only by his diminutive size, but by the fact that he never wears a hat, no matter how cold the weather.

Francis Rogers, a colored man in a ventriloquist act, gave some clever dialogue between the two dolls on his lap and an exceptionally good imitation of a circus barker; the audience being able to hear every word distinctly, yet being unable to detect any motion on his lips.

Wells and DeVore in the "Sport and the Wop" gave a dialogue act between a traveling man and an Italian waiter. Solos and duets feature the act.

Board in Tangle Over County Job

Monroe.—A tangled situation exists in regard to who will be or who is superintendent of the Green county poorhouse and asylum. Committee members Dick of Monticello and Derrick of Brodhead say Walter J. Whitcomb is the man to hold that position. M. C. Durst, third member of the commission, having the power to appoint the superintendent, claims Whitcomb is not elected. Durst wants the place himself. Discussion was raised over the propriety of Mr. Durst voting for himself. The other two commissioners voted for Whitcomb, son of the former superintendent, and declared him elected. The commissioners at first thought they would "pass the buck" to the county board, but it was found they could not. Mr. Durst has issued an ultimatum to the effect that he will not sign Mr. Whitcomb's contract and protests his appointment.

MYSTERY OF SLAIN SABBATH SCHOOL TEACHER DEEPENS

Miss Louise Doyle.

Officials of Portsmouth, O., have found themselves baffled at every turn in their efforts to find a tangible clue to the murder of Miss Louise Doyle and John W. Newman, found dead in an abandoned house outside the town after a week's search. Miss Doyle was a Sunday school teacher. Newman was a married man with three children. The two worked at the same factory. Talks with other male acquaintances of Miss Doyle have failed to uncover any clue that would indicate revenge was the motive.

ALUMNUS FROM CHINA SPEAKS AT NORMAL

Whitewater.—J. Earl Baker spoke before the normal school students Wednesday morning. Mr. Baker is here on a leave of absence from China, where he is employed by the Chinese government in the unification of the railroads of the country. During the absence Mr. Baker was given permission by the Chinese government to administer Red Cross relief funds and find employment for those without work. He spent several years of his early life on a farm near Bagle, and graduated from Whitewater Normal in 1901.

RETAIL PRICES IN SLIGHT DECREASES

Washington.—Retail prices decreased during the month ending Oct. 15, according to department of labor statistics, in seven cities out of 12 where investigations are maintained. The prices were stationary in three others. Baltimore, Kansas City and Philadelphia and increased in Omaha and Memphis. All changes, however, were slight. The largest price decreases amounted to one percent over the previous month and were noted in Manchester, N. H., New Haven, Richmond and Washington, the drops in St. Paul and Little Rock amounting to but fractions of 1 percent.

BADGER LUMBERING ACTIVITY SLUMPS

Winter Operations Expected to Diminish Because of Wage Cuts.

Madison.—Lumbering operations this winter in the remaining forests of northern Wisconsin will probably be less extensive than in former years, because of heavy cuts in the past two seasons. Already the first of the thousands of lumbermen are entering the woods to survey their claims on the remaining hardwood forests of the state, which are being depleted at the rate of a billion feet each year.

The start of logging work is expected to give employment to many of the 15,000 men who will be out of jobs with the completion of the highway construction work this month. Those obtaining jobs in the woods are receiving from $25 to $30 a month with board and lodging, a drop from $75 paid during the summer of 1920.

Lumbermen are said to be making final inroads on the 25 billion feet of timber, estimated to be standing in the forests of the state, which for eight years after 1900 led the nation in their production. Only a hardy few are left, millions of acres of white pine having long ago gone down the northern river to the sawmills. In its cutting of the state and birch this state is still in the lead.

But with the passing of the pine went the Scotch-Irish lumberjack, who built the great lumber industry of northern Wisconsin and whose life of romance and daring, made him a national character in song and popular verse. In his stead has come the immigrant, of mixed nationalities, Finns, Australians and Poles taking the lead.

The movable box car abode has taken the place of the lumber camp, with the railroads supplying the river as a center for bringing logs to the mill. Cutting has gradually drawn away from the rivers deep back into the country, and has made river driving operations a thing of the past. Instead of hauling his timber by sled to the river side to be piled up for the huge spring river drive, Wisconsin lumbermen in the north now work on a flat car, which heads directly for the mill. Danger and excitement are largely withdrawn.

Follows Civil War.—Lumbering started on its great expansion in Wisconsin after 1860, when new mechanical inventions in the mills and improvement in rivers made large cutting operations possible. It was during the 40 years that followed that the "interesting" lumbering history of the state developed, in which northern Wisconsin cities grew at the expense of the forests.

Decline in the industry commenced with 1898, and has continued steadily until this state now ranks eighth in the nation, where it formerly stood at the head. The 200,000,000 acres of forest have been reduced to 3,500,000 acres, with cuts now averaging one billion feet annually, where formerly they amounted to from two to two and one-half billion. Former great white pine forests which were considered inexhaustible, have almost been depleted, until lumbering is now confined to hard woods.

In Far North Counties.—The logging in the far northern counties, where practically all of the virgin timber of the state is left standing. Tracks have been run into the woods, and all plans made for cutting to fill the mill yards. Although the movement of lumber has been heavy during the past two months, it is said that such quantities are still piled up that heavy cutting will of necessity be impossible.

Wisconsin is said to cut yearly four times as much timber as is grown in the state, with the margin decreasing, however, as the cutting of forests decreases and land settlement operations increase. At the present rate of cutting, timber lands are expected to be depleted in 30 years.

CUPID TAKES HAND IN EAST RELIEF

Badger Returns from Levant With Fiancee; Lauds U. S. Work.

New York.—The long, long trail of adventures that for the last six years have carried Edward F. Martin, Peabody, Wis., to far corners of the earth, ended temporarily in his arrival here from the Levant, where he has been engaged in the work of the Near East Relief, since shortly after the signing of the armistice.

Returning on the same ship with Martin was his fiancée, Miss Rachel King, a New York nurse, whom he met in Talas, central Asia. Minor. Both were members of the same unit of the Near East Relief. After a brief visit to relatives in this country, they plan to be married and to return to their work among the war victims of the Levant.

During the war, Martin served first with American Ambulance Service and, after U. S. entered the war, in the A. E. F. He went out to the Near East early in 1919 and was assigned to the Talas district, at that time one of the centers through which Armenian deportees were passing on the way back to their homes. After the Turkish Nationalist movements developed, the city was practically isolated from the outside world for many months. Since May, when he left Talas, Martin has been in charge of the warehouse and the motor transport of the relief organization at its overseas headquarters in Constantinople.

Praises U. S. Aid.—"There is no understating what American relief efforts have accomplished, not only in Asia Minor, but throughout the Near East," Martin told Charles V. Vickrey, general secretary of the relief organization. "In many cases an entire district has been placed on its feet by wise and efficient methods of relief administration. The greatest difficulty has been caused by continued warfare. But in spite of all sorts of handicaps the American workers have kept things going."

"There are thousands of children who are now being cared for in American institutions who will grow up very much like boys and girls in this country. They will be a vast power for good in lands where racial and religious strife has caused untold misery and suffering."

Situation Serious.—"At present the situation in Russian Transcaucasia is very serious, owing to the famine situation. Americans from that district told us in Constantinople that children are dying on the streets of Armenian cities—formerly Russian cities—because for transportation and housing sufficient supplies and adequate facilities are lacking to care for them. They had hoped in Constantinople before I left, however, that food stuffs and money would reach the famine area in sufficient quantities before winter to save the entire childhood of the Armenian nation. "Our work in the Caucasus, Talas district was broad. In addition to caring for approximately three thousand orphans we maintained a hospital and an industrial school. In the latter the orphanage boys were taught trades in order that they may some day be able to support themselves."

Martin declared that if it were not for America, unnumbered thousands of children in the Levant would have died during the past three years under the most horrible circumstances.

4-Year Old Girl Is Badly Burned

Calville Center.—Bernice Maynard, 4-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dawson Maynard, was badly burned about the face, neck and hands Sunday morning. Mrs. Maynard started a fire in the heating stove, leaving some kindling in the stove ready to be lighted when she went out of the house a moment to get some wood and upon her return found the child's dress in flames. Bernice had struck a match to the kindling and her dress had caught fire. She is in a serious condition.

Persons.—Wilbur Andrew is entertaining the coin shredders this week. William Klummayr was a business visitor in Janesville, Saturday. The Sunday school conference will be held in the parsonage, Sunday.

He Is Looking 'Em Over Again

Thousands of grateful men and women all over the country are today marveling over the permanent benefits Trutona, the famous tonic has given them. Read the following remarkable statement of John Johnson, 417 Oak street, Peoria, Ill.: "I began using Trutona more than a year ago, after my system had become so rundown I was having to lay off from work half the time," he said. "Trutona relieved me of that dreadful weakened condition, restored my appetite and gave me new strength and, in fact, put me on my feet again. And I haven't had one sick day since that time. That's what Trutona's done for me. Though I never need it now, I always keep a bottle of Trutona in my home."

Trutona gives PERMANENT relief because it REMOVES the CAUSE of health troubles. It doesn't merely skim the surface of your ills, but goes down to the very root of your troubles and by its thoroughness eliminates the likelihood of a recurrence of the same ailment. Trutona is nothing short of a wonderful tonic and strengthener. Winter is coming. You'll need every ounce of vitality to withstand the cold, slushy rains and disagreeable weather that's on the way. Keep fit. Start early. Take Trutona NOW! Buy this famous tonic in Janesville at the PEOPLE'S DRUG STORE: Gilman, Bodens, Edstrom, Atwell & Dahlman's; Delavan, Murphy & O'Neil's. Advertisement.

PAIR FINED UNDER PROHIBITION LAW

Charge of Stealing Liquor Dropped on Confession of Bootlegging.

Monroe.—Charges against H. T. Chandler and Frank Seelich of bootlegging the county courthouse vault in the night time and taking a quantity of liquor and a copper distilling apparatus, held as evidence in cases awaiting trial. In circuit court were dismissed when they pleaded guilty in Green county circuit court to having liquor in their possession. Chandler and Seelich were fined $200 and costs each. Seelich has decided to drop the civil suit which he had filed against the sheriff of Green county, alleging that he had conspired to injure him and charging false arrest and assault.

Carl Johnson, Lawrence Elson of Woodford, Hector Dalglish of Albany, and Albert E. Boss were fined $100 and costs each for violation of the prohibition laws. The case of Frank Monahan was dismissed when it was shown that he gave a moonshiner a ride without knowing it.

Cases against Otto Stegenthaler, Rosa Stegenthaler, Carl Voght and Albertina Wyss were continued because the issues valued in the Baliger and Ammon case are the same as in theirs. Judge Grimm has continued them to allow the defendants to take to the supreme court the question of whether or not peace officers have a right to search and seize distillery paraphernalia and other evidence without a search warrant. They also will test the question as to whether a search warrant can be issued on mere information and belief.

Peter Mistro, captured by Sheriff Charles Buehler with 10 gallons of Chicago moonshine, was fined $400 or six months in jail. Edward McCue was fined $240, including costs.

Classified Columns Greatest of Mediums for Locating Help

Of all the mediums available to you in locating openings for services that you can render, by far the most immediate is the "help wanted" advertisements of the daily newspapers, magazines and trade publications. This agency is immediate, because here you know definitely that somebody requires services that you are ready to offer. Mistakenly, many have been led to believe that good openings cannot be located through "help wanted" advertisements because, as they have been informed, good positions are not advertised. Nothing is further from the truth. I have tested this source in my job-hunting days, and for clients and during this experience I have inserted advertisements calling for men and women of large calibre with salaries ranging from $3,000.00 to $25,000.00 per annum. But the best proof is to be found in the newspapers, magazines and trade publications. A glance any day, especially on Sunday, will convince any one that "help wanted" advertisements are really excellent opportunities for those out of employment, or seeking to obtain better positions.

"Help Wanted" advertisements for both ordinary and executive positions usually appear in the classified columns at the end of the newspaper or magazine. When employers find it impossible to obtain the persons they desire through the classified columns, or because they want to make their wants known in a more conspicuous manner to obtain a greater number and variety of applicants that ordinarily do not read the classified advertisements, they use the full run of the newspaper or magazine after the style of the ordinary display advertiser. In special cases, where businessmen desire to connect with persons of special training and experience, they have recourse to the "Business Opportunities" advertisements under the heading "Business Connections Desired."—Jacob Penn in Leslie's.

BEER AS MEDICINE ALL JOKE-KRAMER

Breweries Blamed, Not Doctors, by Former U. S. Official.

"Beer for medicinal purposes, is all a joke," said J. F. Kramer, former U. S. prohibition commissioner, speaking before a large audience at the Methodist church Thursday night under the auspices of the Anti-Saloon league. "Not one doctor in a hundred applied for permits to prescribe liquor during my term of office and not one drug store in a thousand did so. But at that time there was one doctor in Washington who we found was writing 500 prescriptions a day. 'It is not the doctor who is pushing this matter,' he emphasized. 'They do not want to be an adjunct to the liquor business, and a substitute for the saloon, he continued, but it is the breweries which want a market for their beer.'"

He contended that the idea being promulgated by insidious propaganda that light wines and beer are not harmful is most dangerous, as he said most of the drunkenness of the country was caused by these drinks, and boys learned to drink on beer."

Condemns the Bootlegger
"The meanest term in the English language," he said, "is the bootlegger, and it has caused more crimes than almost any other form of lawlessness. Seven of my deputies were killed in performance of their duty during my term of office, and unnumbered acts of violence were committed."

He urged that men quit thinking about prohibition as the 18th amendment, but that it is a part of the constitution and can never be taken out, the question now before the American people is law enforcement, he said.

"Nothing has ever fastened itself upon the nation as the liquor business," he emphasized, "and through its political power it has dominated whole cities, and even states."

N. C. Shirley, Madison, and R. P. Hutton, Milwaukee, officers of the Anti-Saloon league also spoke briefly on the necessity of law enforcement. The latter emphasized the fact that while the fighting is desperately against a desperate thing, and the motto at this time should be, down with the traitor and up with the law."

F. Matheson presided at the meeting and the men's choir of the Methodist church sang several numbers, one of them being "Come We Stop the Drinking."
